

RMANH's 2007 Retailer of the Year

Gondwana and Divine Clothing Company, Concord, NH

Pamela Peterson, owner

Pamela Peterson, owner of Gondwana and Divine Clothing Company, accepts her 2007 Retailer of the Year Award from NH Governor John Lynch.

The Retail Merchants Association of New Hampshire named Gondwana and Divine Clothing Company, Concord, their 2007 Retailer of the Year at our 41st Annual Member and Legislative Reception held Wednesday, February 7th, 2007 at the Holiday Inn in Concord, NH. Governor John Lynch was in attendance, and presented owner Pamela Peterson with the award.

Gondwana and Divine Clothing Company is a boutique and gift shop located at 13 N Main Street, Concord, New Hampshire and offers a mix of items from artisans near and far. Their mission is to work with and support artisans at home and around the world. These artisans create distinctive treasures that promote global acceptance, cultural celebration, individual expression and environmental preservation.

The customer that nominated them stated “This stores mission nicely sums up what to expect on the merchandise side, but you are in for a real treat when you encounter their sales clerks - professional, caring exceptional service abounds! It is refreshing to shop at a unique boutique that excels in customer service and corporate social responsibility”.

According to NH Magazine, Gondwana and Divine Clothing Company practically shines with worldly perspective and social consciousness. They were awarded a Best of NH Award in 2003 from that magazine and were recognized as one of only two New Hampshire stores involved in the SERV International - A Greater Gift Program offering hope and justice with every purchase.

The quote on Gondwana and Divine Clothing's gift certificates captures their philosophy quite well - “Step lightly across the lands - Flow with the cycles of the ancient seas - Dance with the spirit of the moon - Celebrate the gifts of the world.”

